

Name _____

Adverb Clauses

An adverbial clause is a dependent clause that modifies a verb. Like all clauses, an adverb clause contains a subject and a verb, and it is connected to the rest of the sentence with a subordinating conjunction (for example, because, when, if, as, although, etc.)

In a sentence, an adverb clause can function like a single adverb to modify a verb, or it can modify an entire phrase or clause. An adverb clause answers the question where, when, why, how, or how much.

DIRECTIONS: Find and underline the adverb clause in each sentence.

1. After we eat dinner, we will go to the store.
2. Because we are friends, I will give you a discount.
3. Please call me if the boys come home.
4. Let's wait here until they get finished shopping.
5. We huddled under the awning where we could stay dry.
6. Before you start that sandwich, I think we should talk.
7. I was not here when John arrived.
8. We watched the movie as the children played.
