

Indefinite Pronouns

An indefinite pronoun is one that does not refer to any definite or specific person, place or thing. Some examples are all, any, and some. Underline the indefinite pronoun in each sentence.

1. There is nobody I know here.
2. I have a few thoughts for you.
3. Can I have some water?
4. I don't have any.
5. Someone is at the door.
6. Tim has everything he needs.
7. I have many great ideas to share with you.
8. There were two things I wanted, but I could find neither.
9. Everyone is coming in costume.
10. Each has brought their own lunch.
11. Somebody needs to take responsibility for this.
12. Few are comfortable with lying.
13. Anyone who wants to can get in here.

