

Pronoun Antecedent Agreement

A pronoun is a word that takes the place of a noun. The word that a pronoun takes the place of is called the antecedent.

Rewrite the second sentence in each set, replacing the subject noun(s) with a pronoun(s) that agrees with it. Circle the antecedent in the first sentence.

1. George has a lot of friends. George is very friendly.
2. My mother has two jobs. My mother supports the family.
3. Quinn and Hank are both artistic. Quinn get commissions.
4. These books are wonderful. These books are entertaining.
5. Put up the baby gate. The baby gate will keep the cat out.
6. That table is wobbly. That table has crooked legs.
7. My children are talented. My children are also popular.
8. Candice is a tattletale. Candice is always getting me in trouble.
9. Tony has a girlfriend. Tony spends all his time with his girlfriend.