

Transitions of Addition/Agreement

Transition words are used in a sentence to connect two ideas. They join clauses, sentences, paragraphs, or entire sections of writing together to show a relationship between them. Different transition words signal different kinds of relationships. One kind of relationship that transition words can signal between ideas is addition, agreement, or reinforcement. For example:

in addition	by the same token	in the same vein
equally	moreover	similarly
as well as	furthermore	not to mention

DIRECTIONS: Practice using and varying transitions of addition, agreement, and reinforcement by rewriting the sentences below six times. Each time, use a different transition of addition to connect them.

Mary is a runner. Mary is a swimmer.

- 2.
- 3.
- 4.
- 5.
- 6.

Does the meaning of the sentences change at all as you change the transition word? Explain your answer.
