

ANSWERS

1. It is the day on which the person who has been elected to be the new president (called the president-elect) officially becomes the president.
2. every four years
3. the inauguration date and the oath the new President must take in order to assume the office