

ANSWERS

1. The setting is when and where a story takes place.
2. Information about a story's setting could include the geographical location, the time of year, the time of day, what it feels like to be in this setting, and how this setting is experienced with each of the five senses.
3. will vary
4. will vary, but generally a change of setting probably changes the story.