

Answering Reader's Questions

DIRECTIONS: Read your draft manuscript through carefully. Make a careful note every time you encounter something that will ultimately need to be answered, solved, revealed, explained, etc. As you encounter where in the manuscript you satisfied this reader expectation, make a note. Have you missed any? If so, go back and revise your manuscript's resolution to make sure that all of your reader's lingering questions are answered.

What needs to be answered, solved, revealed, or explained?	Is it resolved in the story right now? Where?
