

ANSWERS

It is important to use both primary and secondary sources. Neither is more important. Using both helps to create a convincing argument. While primary sources make for more credible evidence, secondary sources show how your work relates to the existing body of work on the topic.