

Who | Whoever | Whose

DIRECTIONS: Is who/whoever/whose in each sentence used correctly?
Consult the reference text of your choice if you are not sure.

	Correct?
You asked whom?	Yes
You asked who?	No
With whom did you discuss this?	Yes
With who did you discuss this?	No
Who are you describing?	No
She dislikes Diana whom she thinks offended her.	No
She likes Jane, who has never offended her.	Yes
Whom do you think you are?	No
Share with whoever would like some.	Yes
Give it to whoever you want to have it.	Yes
Give it to whomever you choose should have it.	Yes
Share it with whomever wants it.	No
That's the boy whose sister won the race.	Yes
That's the house whose window got broken.	No

