My 100-Day Plan

DIRECTIONS: It is a tradition for presidents to create a plan about what they plan to accomplish during their first 100 days in office. The first hundred days of a new presidency are important because they show the country what kind of leader the new president is going to be. So early in the office, the president is also able to be more forceful about addressing things they believe are problems in the country.

Imagine you are the new president. What are five things would you like to accomplish in your first 100 days? Write your 100-day plan.

1. _____

2. _____

3. _____

4. _____

5. _____
