

ANSWERS

Answers may vary.

A case can be made that the Soviet Union caused the crisis by placing missiles in Cuba, within striking distance of the U.S.

A case can be made that the United States caused the crisis by placing missiles in Italy and Turkey, within striking distance of the Soviet Union, and by their failure to removed Castro from power during the Bay of Pigs invasion, which strengthened the alliance between Cuba and the Soviet Union.