

ANSWERS WILL VARY

It is a human achievement because people from many different countries on Earth came together to accomplish something. They planned, coordinated and monitored the construction, assembly, and now the operation of the ISS. It proves that the people of Earth can come together as a single entity.