

Conditional Language

DIRECTIONS: Write a sentence to illustrate each conditional.

The zero conditional structure talks about something that is always true or usually true.

The first conditional structure talks about possibilities in the present or in the future.

The second conditional structure is used to talk about unreal situations (things that aren't possible; things that won't happen) in the present.

The third conditional structure is used to talk about unreal situations (things that were impossible; things that didn't happen, etc.) in the past.
