

Giving Directions

In the box, draw a map of where you live. Include as many major locations or landmarks as you can think of. Label streets if you know them.

Working with a partner, take turns asking and answering the question, "How do I get to..." filling in the blank with a different location each time. If you are the person answering the question, give the questioner directions to the location they request.