

Lewis and Clark

The Lewis and Clark expedition set off from the city of St. Louis on May 14, 1804. In what is now the state of North Dakota, they met the Shoshone woman Sacagawea, who joined the expedition. They saw many new places. They met and traded with many Native American tribes. They also made many maps along the way. After an eighteen-month-long journey, they arrived at the Pacific Ocean.

Imagine you were travelling with the Lewis and Clark. Write a short letter home to your family describing something that happened along the way.
