

ANSWERS

1. Though John Adams was a patriot, he believed that the soldiers deserved a fair trial.
2. Adams argued that the soldiers had the right to defend themselves when they believed their lives to be in danger from the unruly crowd that had gathered.