

ANSWERS

The government only has the powers that are explicitly given to it in the Constitution. Everyone in the country is subject to the same laws.

Everyone, without exception, is subject to the law, even the leader of the country.