

ANSWERS

Type of Fallacy	What Is It?	Class Example	Example from Assignment bandwagon	arguing that something is right or good because everyone is doing slippery slope	moving from a benign premise to an improbably extreme equivocation	using a word phrase or sentence deliberately to false dichotomy	limiting options to two when they are actually many options ad hominem	personal attack red herring	using something that isn't really relevant to distract from the argument strawman	attacks a position the opponent doesn't really hold		