

ANSWERS WILL VARY

Her poems record thoughts and feelings without being “philosophical.” She tends to write aphoristically, meaning she packs a lot of meaning into very few words. They are sometimes initially hard to understand, but upon further study, usually reveal a great deal of meaning.