

ANSWERS

1. Washington is the only U.S. president ever to not represent a political party.
2. He warned the American people against political parties because he felt they would have a bad effect on the country.
3. He thought that the arguments of opposing political parties would undermine the concept of popular sovereignty.
4. answers will vary