

ANSWERS

1. A migrant is a person who moves from one place to another. Migrant workers move from farm to farm in California looking for work.
2. an organization formed by workers who join together and use their combined strength to have a voice in their workplace.
3. A strike is when workers refuse to work.
4. A boycott is when people refuse to buy a product or use a service until the business concedes to certain demands.
5. When a person fasts, they do not eat. People sometimes fast in order to draw attention to a cause.
6. The union created by Cesar Chavez to fight for rights for migrant farm workers
7. the country's first and still the only law guaranteeing farm workers the right to organize, choose their own union representative and negotiate with their employers