

ANSWERS

1. Congress had previously convened in New York and Philadelphia, where libraries were available to them, but there were no libraries in Washington D.C. when it became the nation's capital.
2. It was burned when the British burned the Capitol in 1812.
3. they bought Thomas Jefferson's personal library, which consisted of 6,487 books
4. three