

ANSWERS

Marianne develops from an idealistic, romantic, immature young girl to a mature young woman who has abandoned her romantic illusions.

The author seems to feel this marriage is good for Marianne, and that a good marriage is based on friendship and mutual respect, as opposed to wild passion. Answers will vary.