

ANSWERS

They function as a denouement by giving the reader a sense of what happens to the protagonist after the end of the story, as a result of the events of the story.

They function as a resolution because they let the reader know that the story is over.