

Name _____ Literary Criticism

Mimetic Literary Criticism

Literary criticism means comparing, analyzing, interpreting, and/or evaluating literary works. A work of literary criticism puts your ideas together with both the work being considered, other people's ideas about the work, and/or research you have done relevant to the work. There are a number of established perspectives that literary criticism can take. The mimetic perspective considers a literary work within the context of its literary or cultural models.

DIRECTIONS: Prepare to write a short paper of literary criticism from the mimetic perspective. Answer the questions to organize your thoughts.
