

First Person

Define first person point of view.
Name something you have read recently that is written in the first-person point of view.
Write something that demonstrates first person point of view.
What is the main limitation of first-person point of view?
What is the main advantage of first-person point of view?	