

ANSWERS

Julius Caesar was a Roman general and statesman who helped restore Cleopatra to power after she had been removed from the palace by her younger brother, Ptolemy VIII. Caesar's army defeated Ptolemy's forces at the Battle of the Nile. Cleopatra and Julius Caesar fell in love and had a child named Cesarean. Julius Caesar was assassinated in 44 BC

Marc Antony emerged as a new Roman leader after Julius Caesar died. He and Cleopatra fell in love. They also became military allies against Octavian, Julius Caesar's legal heir. Cleopatra wanted Marc Antony to help her to place her own son with Caesar, Caesarion, on the Roman throne. They were defeated by Octavian. Marc Antony committed suicide, and when she heard about it, Cleopatra did too.