

ANSWERS

It put an end to the the French and Indian War/Seven Years' War between Great Britain and France, with France giving up all its territories in mainland North America, so there would no longer be a foreign military threat to the British colonies.

Why the two countries shouldn't be at war vs. why they were at war to begin with

Pathos. The introduction says: [...] to forget all past misunderstandings and differences that have unhappily interrupted the good correspondence and friendship which they mutually wish to restore, and to establish such a beneficial and satisfactory intercourse, between the two countries upon the ground of reciprocal advantages and mutual convenience as may promote and secure to both perpetual peace and harmony.