

ANSWERS WILL VARY

The story is a commentary on both the power gap between property-owners and others, and on the limited choices available to people who have very little means.