

ANSWERS

Private property

Only a few people in a society have private property.
Those in society who have private property have it at the expense of the majority, who don't have any private property.