

ANSWERS

B, D, E

Parables are short stories that teach a moral or spiritual lesson, but parables tend to have people as characters, while fables, allegories, and apologues have animals or objects as characters.