

ANSWERS WILL VARY

Ballads are the most ancient of all literary forms – the earliest works of literature that we have are epic poems, which are a kind of ballad.

A ballad tells a story, but it also has the meter and rhyme of poetry.

While many ballads share characteristics of form, there is no fixed form for a ballad, so it offers a lot of creative opportunity.