

Sleeping on the job

Aaron wanted to go for a walk. His dog, Toby, did not.

"Come on!" Aaron insisted. "It's your job to take walks. It's my job to take you on walks."

Aaron put on Toby's harness and snapped on the leash. Toby just laid down. Aaron opened the front door, picked up Toby, and carried him outside to the grass. There, Toby laid down, rolled over, and showed Aaron his belly.

"It's time for our walk!" Aaron insisted.

Toby just yawned, rolled over onto his side, and fell asleep. So Aaron sat down in the grass beside him.

"Oh well," Aaron said, laying down on his back next to Toby. "It is a nice day for an outdoor nap!"
