

George and Bingo

Everyone was excited when Dad brought home an adorable little puppy. Everyone, that is, except for George, the family cat. George did not like change, and he did not like the puppy.

One day, when George left some unfinished food in his bowl, the puppy, who they had named Bingo, toddled over to give it a sniff. When George saw Bingo sniffing his food, he yowled, and hissed. Bingo barked happily and bounded over to George. Finally, Bingo thought, this funny-looking puppy wants to play! George was so surprised that he ran upstairs. Bingo followed close behind. George leapt up onto a bed, spun around, jumped back down, and dashed past Bingo, back down the stairs. When Bingo got to the bottom of the stairs again, George pounced. Bingo turned and ran back upstairs, and George chased him. To his surprise, George started to have fun. Up and down, they went for almost an hour. By the time they stopped to rest, they were friends.

- | | | |
|---------------------------------------|------|-------|
| 1. Bingo is a kitten. | true | false |
| 2. George is a cat. | true | false |
| 3. Bingo thinks George wants to play. | true | false |
| 4. George and Bingo make friends. | true | false |