

Sequence an Easy Story

It was Parrish's first day of school. He was six, and he was starting the first grade. Parrish's little sister Amiyah was sad. She was only three, and she was staying home. Parrish packed his backpack. Then he walked to the bus stop. When he got to school, he found his classroom. When class started, everyone had to stand up and say what they were looking forward to the most that year in school. Parrish said he was looking forward to going back home to see Amiyah.
