

ANSWERS

1. It is divided into three acts: childhood, adult and donor
2. As a child, Kathy is free-spirited, kind, and loving. She gets less emotional as she gets older. When she matures, she accepts her life and those of her friends.
3. Yes. It traces the coming of age of the main character. It criticizes the modern day class system and the general ignorance people have about suffering.