

ANSWERS

1. Metanoia
2. A rhetorical device in which a writer immediately corrects or modifies something that they have just said.
3. A metanoia usually either strengthens or softens the preceding statement. A metanoia is not an additional statement, but a modification of what was just said.