

ANSWERS

Define Fable

A short story featuring animals that has a moral or a lesson.

Define Parable

A simple story featuring people that illustrates a moral or a simple lesson.

How are fables and parables the same?

Parables and fables are both short allegories, which means they both have two layers, the surface layer that is the events of the story, and a deeper layer with a deeper meaning or lesson.

How do fables and parables differ?

The main characters of parables are typically people, while the characters in fables are typically animals, plants, and inanimate objects.
