

Name _____ Central Idea

Les and the Wobbly Tower

Les the Builder was famous in Toolsville for creating the strongest and most beautiful structures. One day, he decided to build the tallest tower anyone had ever seen.

But Les was in a hurry. He wanted to finish it before anyone else could. So, instead of taking the time to measure and plan, he started piling up bricks and wood.

His friend Penny the Planner said, "Les, don't rush! Always remember to measure twice and build once."

But Les didn't listen. Soon, his tower was the tallest in town. It reached the clouds! But, it wobbled whenever the wind blew. People were afraid to go near it.

One stormy day, the tower began to shake and sway. Les watched in horror as it toppled down, crashing to the ground.

Thankfully, no one was hurt. But Les felt terrible. He realized he should have listened to Penny.

With the help of his friends, Les rebuilt the tower. This time, he took his time, measured carefully, and made sure it was strong and safe. And it turned out even more magnificent than before!

What is the Central Idea of the story?