

Name _____

Which Species? Answer Key

1. The Arctic tern has the longest migration route, traveling from its breeding grounds in the Arctic to its wintering grounds in the Antarctic and back, covering a distance of approximately 44,000 miles (70,900 kilometers) round trip.
2. The Andean bear, also known as the spectacled bear, is the only species of bear that is native to South America.
3. The hummingbird is known for its unique ability to fly backward and hover in mid-air.
4. The Komodo dragon is the world's largest species of lizard.
5. The snail species called the limpet has the largest number of teeth, with some individuals having over 25,000 teeth.
6. The pudu, a small deer species native to South America, is the smallest species of deer.
7. The giraffe has the longest neck of any living creature.
8. The blue whale produces the loudest sound in the animal kingdom, with its calls reaching up to 188 decibels.
9. The sailfish is the fastest marine animal, capable of swimming at speeds up to 68 miles per hour (110 kilometers per hour).
10. The electric eel is known for its ability to produce electricity, which it uses for navigation, communication, and hunting.