

Name _____

Animal Physiology Answer Key

1. The whale shark is the largest species of shark.
2. The sea otter is known for its ability to use tools, including using rocks to crack open shells.
3. The pygmy marmoset is the world's smallest species of monkey.
4. The bird-of-paradise is known for its elaborate courtship dance performed by males to impress and attract females.
5. The hummingbird is the only bird that can fly backward.
6. The chameleon is known for its remarkable ability to change color to blend in with its environment.
7. The Komodo dragon is the world's largest species of lizard.
8. The starfish is known for its ability to regenerate lost limbs.
9. The dwarf sperm whale is the smallest species of whale.
10. The giraffe has the longest neck of any living creature.