

ANSWERS

1. People live on spaceships in outer space. They have all their needs taken care of. They don't even have to walk anymore.
2. They had to leave Earth because it was covered with trash.
3. People are overweight; they have lost some aspects of being human, like knowledge of and a relationship with plants.
4. Will vary. It doesn't have the elements of a classic utopia, but it does present a society (in space) that seems perfect, but which is actually built upon something dystopian.