Name _____

National Novel Writing Month (NaNoWriMo)

National Novel Writing Month, often abbreviated as NaNoWriMo, is an annual creative writing event that takes place throughout the month of November. The primary goal of NaNoWriMo is to inspire and challenge writers to complete a 50,000-word novel within 30 days, starting on November 1st and concluding on November 30th. This initiative was founded in 1999 and has since grown into a global writing community, with participants from all over the world coming together to embrace the creative process and tackle the ambitious task of writing a novel.

During NaNoWriMo, writers of all skill levels are encouraged to set aside their inner critics and simply focus on writing. The event provides a supportive online platform where participants can track their progress, connect with fellow writers, and access resources and encouragement. While the emphasis is on quantity rather than quality, NaNoWriMo serves as a valuable experience for writers to kickstart their projects, overcome writer's block, and develop a writing routine. It's a celebration of storytelling, imagination, and the power of the written word, aiming to turn aspiring writers into novelists, one word at a time.

Directions - This passage has 6 errors. Find the errors and correct them.

National Novel Writing Month, or NaNoWriMo, was founded in 1999 by writer Chris Baty and a small group of friends in the San francisco Bay Area. The idea behind NaNoWriMo was to create a fun and challenging event that would motivated people to tackle the often daunting task of writing a novel. The inaugural event took place in July 1999, but it was moved to November the following year to take advantage of the cozy, indoor atmosphere that the fall season provides?

Since its humble beginnings, NaNoWriMo has grewn into a global phenomenon, with participants from all over the world. It has a dedicated website where writers can create profiles, track there progress, and connect with fellow participants. The NaNoWriMo community has expanded to include local writing groups, regional events, and a vast online network of writers who come together to offer support, encouragement, and resources throughout the writing journey. NaNoWriMo has helped countless aspiring authors turn their ideas into completed manuscripts, emphasizing the importance of quantity over quality during the initial writing process and encouraging writers to silence their inner critics until after the first draft is complete.

© 15Worksheets.com