

Name _____

International Day of Friendship

The International Day of Friendship is a United Nations observance celebrated annually on July 30th. This day aims to promote and celebrate the importance of friendship as a fundamental human relationship that transcends borders, cultures, and differences. It serves as a reminder that friendships can contribute to peace and understanding among individuals, communities, and nations.

The International Day of Friendship encourages people around the world to foster and strengthen friendships by engaging in activities that promote mutual respect, trust, and solidarity. It's a time to reach out to old friends, make new ones, and participate in events and initiatives that promote the values of friendship, tolerance, and dialogue. This day underscores the belief that friendships are essential for promoting harmony and cooperation in an increasingly interconnected and diverse world.

Directions: This passage has 6 errors. Find the errors and correct them.

Qualities of a good friend encompass a range of attributes that contributor to nurturing and maintaining healthy, meaningful relationships. Firstly, trustworthiness is paramount. A good friend can be relied upon to keep you confidence, be honest and transparent, and consistently demonstrate they're loyalty and reliability. Trust forms the foundation of any strong friendship.

Empathy is another crucial quality. A good friend is attentive and understanding, showing genuine concern for their friend's feelings and experiences. They actively listen, offer support during challenging times, and celebrated their friends' successes. Additionally, respect is fundamental in a friendship. A good friend values and respects their friend's individuality, beliefs, and choices, even when there are differences of opinion. They treat each other with kindness and consideration, avoiding judgment or disrespect? Lastly, a sense of reciprocity is important in any friendship. Good friends give and taken in equal measure, balancing their support, time, and efforts to ensure a mutually beneficial and harmonious relationship. Overall, a good friend contributes to a sense of trust, understanding, respect, and balance in the relationship, making it a source of comfort, growth, and joy in both individuals' lives.