

Name _____

National Proofreading Day

Answer Key

Correction Marks

Once upon a time, in a bustling classroom, a group of young friends named Lily, Ben, and Mia were working on a Project. They had written a fantastic story about a magical dragon who could grent wishes. Excited to share their tail, they decided to read it aloud to the class. However, just before they began, their wise teacher, Mrs. Anderson, reminded them of the importance of proofreading.

Taking Mrs. Anderson's s advice to heart, the friends carefully checked their story for spelling and grammar errors. They 'll fixed misplaced commas, corrected misspelled words, and made sure their sentences made sense. As they read their polished story to the class, they realized that proofreading had transformed their tale into an even more enchanting adventure. There classmates were captivated by the story, and Lily, Ben, and Mia learned that paying attention to details through proofreading made their writing shine even brighter. From that day on, they became the proofreading champions of their class, always ready to make their stories and assignments the best they could be.

Complete Passage

Once upon a time, in a bustling classroom, a group of young friends named Lily, Ben, and Mia were working on a project. They had written a fantastic story about a magical dragon who could grant wishes. Excited to share their tale, they decided to read it aloud to the class. However, just before they began, their wise teacher, Mrs. Anderson, reminded them of the importance of proofreading.

Taking Mrs. Anderson's advice to heart, the friends carefully checked their story for spelling and grammar errors. They fixed misplaced commas, corrected misspelled words, and made sure their sentences made sense. As they read their polished story to the class, they realized that proofreading had transformed their tale into an even more enchanting adventure. Their classmates were captivated by the story, and Lily, Ben, and Mia learned that paying attention to details through proofreading made their writing shine even brighter. From that day on, they became the proofreading champions of their class, always ready to make their stories and assignments the best they could be.