

Name _____

Grandparents' Day

Answer Key

Correction Marks

In a cozy house, their lived a curious girl named Lily and her loving grandparents, Grandma Grace and Grandpa George. Every summer, Lily and her grandparents embarked on exciting adventures in their lush backyard garden. This year was xtra special because they decided to grew sunflowers taller than their house.

Lily, armed with a small shovel, would dig tiny holes while Grandma grace and Grandpa George gently planted the sunflower seeds. They watered them every day and watched with wonder as the green sprouts began to reach for the sky. As the summer days passed, the sunflowers grew taller and taller, their golden faces following the sun's path across the sky. Lily and her grandparents would sat in the garden, telling stories, and sharing laughter under the shade of those magnificent sunflowers. Together, they learned that love and time could make even the tallest dreams come true.

Complete Passage

In a cozy house, there lived a curious girl named Lily and her loving grandparents, Grandma Grace and Grandpa George. Every summer, Lily and her grandparents embarked on exciting adventures in their lush backyard garden. This year was extra special because they decided to grow sunflowers taller than their house.

Lily, armed with a small shovel, would dig tiny holes while Grandma Grace and Grandpa George gently planted the sunflower seeds. They watered them every day and watched with wonder as the green sprouts began to reach for the sky. As the summer days passed, the sunflowers grew taller and taller, their golden faces following the sun's path across the sky. Lily and her grandparents would sit in the garden, telling stories, and sharing laughter under the shade of those magnificent sunflowers. Together, they learned that love and time could make even the tallest dreams come true.