

Name _____

National Pet Day

Answer Key

Correction Marks

Some of the perennial american favorite pets include dogs, cats, and freshwater fish. Dogs are known for there loyal and affectionate nature, making them cherished companions for millions of Americans. They come in various breeds and sizes, suited to different lifestyles, from energetic breeds like Labrador Retrievers to smaller, low-energy breeds like Shih Tzus.

Cats also hold a special place in many households across the country. They are known for their independence and low-maintenance nature. Cats can be playful and affectionate, and their diverse breeds offer options for families, singles, and seniors alike. freshwater fish, such as goldfish, bettas, and tropical fish, are also popular pets. Their vibrant colors and unique behaviors make aquariums a soothing and fascinating addition to homes. These pets are generally considered low maintenance compared to dogs and cats, making them suitable for people with busy lifestyles or limited space. It's worth noting that pet popularity can change over time, and other animals like birds reptiles, and small mammals also find loving homes in the United States.

Complete Passage

Some of the perennial American favorite pets include dogs, cats, and freshwater fish. Dogs are known for their loyal and affectionate nature, making them cherished companions for millions of Americans. They come in various breeds and sizes, suited to different lifestyles, from energetic breeds like Labrador Retrievers to smaller, low-energy breeds like Shih Tzus.

Cats also hold a special place in many households across the country. They are known for their independence and low-maintenance nature. Cats can be playful and affectionate, and their diverse breeds offer options for families, singles, and seniors alike. Freshwater fish, such as goldfish, bettas, and tropical fish, are also popular pets. Their vibrant colors and unique behaviors make aquariums a soothing and fascinating addition to homes. These pets are generally considered low maintenance compared to dogs and cats, making them suitable for people with busy lifestyles or limited space. It's worth noting that pet popularity can change over time, and other animals like birds, reptiles, and small mammals also find loving homes in the United States.