International Day of Peace

Answer Key

Correction Marks

World peace is a big dream that many people hope for but it can be tricky to achieve. One reason is that there are different countries with different leaders, and sometimes they don't agree on things, which can lead to conflicts. Another challenge is that people have different beliefs, languages, and traditions, and these differences can sometimes make it hard for everyone to get along.

Sometimes, some people may want more power or land, and this can cause fights and wars. It's also important to remember that not everyone in the world has the same access to things like food, education, and safety, and this can lead to problems too. So, while having world peace is a wonderful idea, it can be challenging because it require cooperation, understanding, and fairness from everyone around the world. But we can work towards it by being kind, learning about each other's cultures, and trying to solve problems peacefully.
