

ANSWERS

The Constitution divides the government into three branches that each have different powers that are dependent upon the powers of the other two.

They wanted to avoid what happened with England and the king.

The legislative branch makes the laws, the executive branch enforces the laws, and the judicial branch explains and interprets the laws.