

ANSWERS

The writers make it clear that this move is necessary. It was time for them to break the political bands that connect the two countries together. Second, this move to separate was a right given to them by Nature and God. Finally, the call for independence may come when there are specific reasons or causes that lead to this separation.